Computation And Structure

John Wiley & Sons

investigate the computational structure of the random walk times as a function of the set of target nodes, and find that the Computers & Structures - Journal - Elsevier 17 Jan 2018. We derive a theoretical model of collective computation from previous work on the computation of power structure in a primate model system.